Informations

Clinic Details Scott teaches quiet, low-stress cattle handling in a fun, relaxed way of the ranch cowboy. The clinic focus on the fundamentals of working cattle like position, timing, pressure points and how to improve your horsemanship skills and teamwork between rider and horse to drive, track, sort, cut, pen and – if you want – rope cattle for branding or doctoring with safety and efficiency.

Is it for me? Excellent personalized instructions for everyone.
All levels welcome!

Participants limited to 10

About Scott Scott Grosskopf lives with his wife Staci and his son Sterling in Billings. Scott has been a cowboy/buckaroo his entire life, most recently at the ZX Ranch in southeast Oregon. Scott has competed and judged big loop roping contests throughout the West.

Costs $ 350 for the two-day-clinic
